1. Go to at least two web sites that provide video content (either streaming video or video that can be downloaded).
   Suggested starting points:
   • www.streaming-list.com
   • www.streamingmediaworld.com
   • www.broadcast.yahoo.com

   Restrictions:
   • Do not choose a television station or television network web site.
   • One of the web sites must be a business or educational institution.

2. View a video from each site.

3. Write a one to two page paper comparing and contrasting the nature and purpose of the video content provided from the sites.
   You must include, but are not limited to, the following considerations:
   • What was the apparent purpose for the video?
   • How elaborate was the visual imagery?
   • Were special effects or visually dynamic transitions used?
   • What was the function of sound in the video?
   • What sound elements were present? Voice? Music? Sound Effects?
   • Were sophisticated graphics or animation used?
   • Were there a lot of quick cuts from one image to another or very few?
   • How did the video compare to what you normally see on television or at the movies?

   Note: Your paper must include the web address for each site used in the assignment.
